

RIOT IN HOUSE NARROWLY AVERTED WHEN GORMAN KNOCKS WILSON DOWN

AIDED BY TICE AND A FEW COOLER HEADED MEMBERS SPEAKER
MCKINLEY PREVENTS FREE-FOR-ALL FIGHT

Peoria Representative Orders Wilson from Rear of Democratic Side When Quincy Man Makes Inaudible Reply--O'Rourke
Charges Wilson With Making Ungentlemanly Remark--More Trouble of a Like Character Predicted.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 13.—A riot was narrowly averted in the house of representatives of the Illinois legislature at 6 o'clock tonight, when Representative Thomas N. Gorman of Peoria, assaulted Representative George H. Wilson of Quincy, the "dry" leader in the house and knocked him down. Aided by Representative Homer J. Tice and a few of the cooler headed members of the house Speaker McKinley succeeded in restoring order and prevented a free-for-all fight on the floor between the friends of Gorman and Wilson.

Anti-House of Ill-Fame Bill Up.
Representative Richardson's anti-house of ill-fame bill was under consideration and Representative Holaday of Danville was making a speech against the measure when the trouble occurred.

Representative Wilson had gone to the rear of the hall on the Democratic side and was talking to several Democratic "drys" when Representative Gorman, in a tone loud enough to be heard throughout the hall of representatives called to him, saying: "Get out of here, you piker—go back where you belong."

Wilson's Reply Not Loud.
Wilson's reply was not loud enough to be heard and apparently no further thought was given to the episode. When Wilson started back to his seat on the Republican side of the hall, a few moments later, he encountered Gorman at the door of the Republican cloak room. No words were passed, but with one blow to Wilson's jaw, Gorman knocked him down. The noise of Wilson's fall attracted the attention of the whole house and in an instant dozens were in an uproar. Half a dozen members sitting on the rear seats jumped over the railing and managed to pull Gorman away. Others raised Wilson to his feet. The "dry" leader was only dazed and recovered quickly.

While Wilson was attempting to explain what had taken place to an excited group of friends who quickly surrounded him, friends of Gorman forced him back to his seat.

Whole House in Turmoil.
In an extremely short time following the assault the whole house was in a turmoil of excitement and disorder. Members left their seats and crowded into the aisles.

Cries of "throw him out," "put that man off the floor" and "expel that member" came from Wilson's friends on both sides of the aisle.

Speaker McKinley's vigorous pounding for order had little effect on the excited members. When the speaker was able to make his voice heard above the din of the noise, he said:

"Let us decide tomorrow or at some other time when we are a little cooler than we are now."

Charges Ungentlemanly Remark.
At the same time Representative O'Rourke managed to make himself heard above the noise. He said:

"I heard the gentleman from Adams (meaning Wilson) make a remark to the gentleman from Peoria (meaning Gorman) that no gentleman should make another."

O'Rourke's statement seemed to convince many of those surrounding Wilson that the assault was not wholly unprovoked as they apparently had believed up to that time.

Order had not been restored when several members took up the cry "adjourn."

Speaker McKinley was undecided, whether it would be best to adjourn or keep the house in order when Representative Tice came to his aid.

Tice Advises Speaker.
Standing in front of the clerk's desk, Tice managed to make his voice heard to the speaker's rostrum above the noise.

"Keep this house in session or there will be a riot—they are ready to fight if you adjourn," he said.

Speaker McKinley accepted the advice and Representative Holaday aided him by continuing the speech he was making when the trouble occurred. The speaker was deaf to further cries to adjourn and the house was rounding into an orderly state when, with a rush, Representative Gorman left his seat and started for the rear of the hall, presumably to renew the attack on Wilson.

Drags Morris Down Aisle.
Representative James H. Morris of Sangamon, a friend of Gorman's, was the first to reach him. Gorman is large and powerful and he dragged Morris down the aisle as he would a child, while the latter clung to his arm. Others came to Morris' aid. It took the strength of half a dozen of the strongest members on the Democratic side to force Gorman back to his seat.

Gorman's second demonstration threw the house into another turmoil of excitement and disorder and for several minutes the scenes of a few minutes before were re-enacted.

"Remove that member from the floor of this house," shouted Speak-

TESTIFY VON PHUL HAD NO WEAPON WHEN SHOT

EXPECTED ARREST IN HENWOOD MURDER TRIAL NOT MADE

Vanness Hall on Stand Said He Was in Hotel Bar Short Time Before Shooting When Defendant Asked Him to "Stick Around" Because "There'll Be Something Doing."

DENVER, Colo., June 13.—Testimony that Sylvester L. VonPhul did not have a weapon in his possession the night Harold F. Henwood shot and instantly killed him and fatally wounded George E. Copeland, a bystander, was introduced by the prosecution in Henwood's second trial on the charge of murdering Copeland, late today.

Paul Whiteman, a musician, testified that he hunted through VonPhul's pockets to find handkerchiefs with which to staunch the flow of blood. Witness said positively no weapon was in VonPhul's clothes.

Expected Arrest Not Made.
Today's session of the trial was expected to develop a sensation in the arrest of one of those most prominently connected with it, following the arrest last night of John T. Garver, of Sidney, Neb., star witness for the defense, charged by the prosecution with perjury. The expected arrest, however, was not made.

John T. Bottom, chief of counsel for the defendant, was placed on the witness stand by the prosecution and admitted changing the record of the former case, so that the testimony threw weight upon the self-defense theory of the defense. The court stenographer who took the record of the former case then testified that the change was incorrect.

The prosecution now is introducing testimony in rebuttal.

Vanness Hall Testifies.
Vanness Hall testified late this afternoon that he was in the hotel bar a short time before the shooting; that he saw Henwood there and the latter had asked him to "stick around" because "there'll be something doing." He also said he pointed to VonPhul asking Henwood if he meant him and that Henwood had replied affirmatively.

The admission of the testimony of Frederick VonPhul, in a long forgotten Missouri murder case operated today to damage the defense of Harold F. Henwood, slayer of Sylvester L. VonPhul, son of the witness in the Missouri case of years ago, on trial here for the killing of George E. Copeland, at the time Henwood shot young VonPhul.

The admission of the testimony in the old Missouri case secured the admission of like testimony today.

Paul Whiteman had testified to a conversation he had with young VonPhul, immediately after the shooting at which both VonPhul and Copeland were wounded, when young VonPhul lay dying.

The defense objected to the testimony as to the conversation being admitted and the court sustained the objection.

A hunt for precedents began and continued fruitlessly until the case of the people of the state of Missouri against Kaiser, twenty years ago, was found. There it was found that the supreme court of the state had ruled that Frederick VonPhul father of one of Henwood's victims of two years ago was permitted to testify as to a conversation with the victim of a shooting affray immediately after the shooting.

GOVERNOR APPOINTS DELEGATES TO CHARITY-CORRECTION CONFERENCE

Sessions of American Association to Be Held in Springfield June 21, 25, and 26—Dr. Norbury a Delegate.

Springfield, Ill., June 13.—Governor Dunne to day appointed the following delegates from Illinois to attend the Fourth Conference of the American Association of Officials of Charity and Correction in this city June 24, 25 and 26th.

John S. Burns, Chicago; Frank J. Ryan, Chicago; William I. Hoffman, Quincy; William P. Holaday, Danville; John T. Denver, Chicago; J. F. Tossey, Toledo; J. A. Womack, Equality; Sherman C. Kingsley, Chicago; W. S. Reynolds, Chicago; Dr. George A. Zeller, Peoria; Dr. Frank Billings, Chicago; Hon. John M. Raup, Fairfield; Hon. Fred J. Kern, Cairo; Hon. Thomas O'Connor, Springfield; Judge R. B. Borroughs, Springfield; Dr. Emil G. Hirsch, Chicago; John M. Lynch, Chicago; Col. C. B. Adams, St. Charles; Hon. E. M. Allen, Champaign; Hon. Frank W. Whipp, Springfield; Dr. Frank Norbury, Springfield and A. L. Bowen, Springfield.

TRIES TO THROW BABY FROM TRAIN

St. Louis, Mo., June 13.—A man about 25 years old, supposed to be insane, who gave his name as Charles Jones of Keokuk, Iowa, created a panic on an in-bound Washash train at the Union Station tonight, when he tried to throw a baby through the car window. The mother of the child was Mrs. Solomon DeWhirst of Paris, Mo. Passengers subdued the lunatic after a hard battle, and turned him over to the police.

GIBBONS KNOCKS OUT AHERN
New York, June 13.—Mike Gibbons of St. Paul knocked out Young Ahern of Brooklyn in the fourth round of a scheduled ten round bout at Madison Square Garden tonight.

SCOPE OF INQUIRY MAY BE BROADENED

Senate Committee Will Probably Investigate
Lobbying as a Fine Art

GALLINGER ON STAND

Testifies That in His Opinion Wilson Had Once Come "Dangerously Near Lobbying"

PALMER IS CROSS-EXAMINED

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 13.—Lobbying as a fine art, how it is done and who is responsible, what ends are sought and what results are accomplished, probably will be investigated by the special senate lobby committee before it concludes its work and submits a report to the senate. It is likely the committee will ask the senate to broaden the scope of inquiry.

On two occasions to day President Wilson figured in the testimony. Senator Gallinger told the committee that in his opinion the president had once at least come "dangerously near lobbying" and Truman G. Palmer, Washington representative of the United States beer sugar industry, declared that a "plate master" campaign much similar to the one conducted in newspapers by him had accompanied the campaigns of the president and Representative Underwood before the Baltimore convention.

Cummins Cross Examines Palmer

Senator Cummins cross-examined Mr. Palmer at length about details of his newspaper campaign and declared that to the best knowledge of the witness many of the big interests of the country were engaged in similar efforts to mold the opinion of the country. The question of who was responsible for an alleged senate order for the publication as a public document of data prepared by Truman G. Palmer in "sugar at a glance" lost sight of by the committee for several hours, bobbed up before adjournment. Chairman Overman announced that the committee intended to call Anselm Wold, printing clerk of the senate. Statements made to him and to Senator Nelson by Mr. Wold, he said, showed that only one order had been made by the senate although two are alleged to have been made. Senator Lodge, who secured an order for the printing of charts made by Mr. Palmer will take the stand to explain his connection with sugar "at a glance" if he desires and Mr. Palmer whose testimony was concluded today will be held here until this matter is cleared up.

Tells of Publicity Conventions.
Mr. Palmer had been on the stand for several hours when Senator Cummins led him into a description of what he knew of other publicity conventions like his own.

"I understand the same concern that we used, the American Press association was used by both Mr. Wilson and Mr. Underwood in their nominating campaigns in the same way," said the witness. "I am speaking of campaigns that are made to affect public opinion which in turn is intended to influence legislation."

Sensors Cummins went to ask if the railroad and banking interests in New York did not employ men to "do the very thing" that he had been doing "to create a public opinion that shall be of a certain kind."

"I have heard it so stated," Mr. Palmer said.

Followed Action of Others.
Further along in his testimony, explaining his engaging in the publicity campaign, Mr. Palmer said:

"We never would have thought of it had it not been that others were doing it and it seemed to be a general thing with American Peace association," said Mr. Palmer.

"The gentlemen who came to me were particular to impress upon me that they were doing this work for Mr. Wilson and Mr. Underwood, prior to nomination."

"Do you mean in their campaigns for nomination?"

"In their campaign for nomination. That is what I was told."

Other witnesses told about writing articles to be used in newspapers to influence public opinion in favor of interests they represented.

CHARGED WITH GRAND LARCENY

Portland, Ore., June 13.—Indictments charging Edmond E. C. Von Klein with the theft of $3,500 worth of diamonds from Ethel Newcomb and with relations with her were returned today by the county grand jury. The jury recommended the retention of the bond of $2,000 against Mrs. Rena D. Morrow of Chicago as a witness against the prisoner. Von Klein's was continued at $5,000 on each charge.

KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Columbus, O., June 13.—Miss Zeller of Columbus, O., and her sister, Mrs. Cora Clickenger, aged 45, of Valley Crossing, O., were instantly killed and the latter's husband, A. S. Clickenger, was fatally injured when an automobile in which the three were riding was struck tonight by a traction car two miles south of this city.

SUFFRAGE OFFICERS ARE HOSTESSES AT BANQUET

ENTERTAIN MEMBERS OF BOTH HOUSES IN CELEBRATION

Mrs. George W. Trout of Chicago Acts as Toastmistress and Many Addresses Are Heard—Congratulatory Telegrams Read.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 13.—Officers and members of the Illinois equal suffrage association tonight at the Leland Hotel entertained members of both houses of the legislature and friends at a large banquet in celebration of the passage of the woman suffrage bill by the general assembly. Mrs. Medill McCormick of Chicago acted as chairman of the committee of women in charge of the affair and Mrs. George Trout also of Chicago presided as toastmistress. As the banquet hall of the hotel had been engaged by another organization previous to the passage of the suffrage bill by the house Wednesday the suffragists used the main dining room and a portion of the lobby for their celebration which attracted much attention.

Speakers at the banquet included the following:

Mrs. Sherman M. Booth, chairman of the legislative committee of the Illinois Equal Suffrage association. Senator Hugh S. Magill, Jr. Representative Charles L. Scott. Representative Christian M. Madison.

Representative Medill McCormick. Governor Dunne. Representative George Fitch. Speaker William McKinley. Catherine Waugh McCulloch, Chicago. Representative Edward D. Shurtleff.

Mrs. Annette Funk, member of the legislative committee. Senator Walter L. Manny. Senator Nick Jun. Representative James Watson. Representative Homer J. Tice. Senator Walter Clyde Jones. Senator W. Duff Percy.

In addition to the speeches, a feature of the banquet was the reading of congratulatory telegrams and cablegrams from prominent friends of the suffrage movement in both the United States and England.

GOVERNOR GLASSCOCK DEFENDS DECLARATION OF MARTIAL LAW

Testifying Before Senate Committee, Former Governor Said He Considered Move Absolutely Necessary.

Charleston, W. Va., June 13.—The mine investigation committee tonight hurried its hearings along with but a single break of its inquiry to be concluded here. The testimony of Governor Glasscock and the civil officers of Kanawha county, in power during the strike, concluded the record under the head of the "arrest and conviction of citizens contrary to the laws and constitution."

Tonight Senator Kenyon's branch of the inquiry, as to general conditions and causes leading up to the strike, was all that was left to be done in Charleston. The big question as to agreements and combinations, "contrary to the laws of the United States" for the purpose of controlling the production of West Virginia coal will not be taken up by the committee at this time, it was decided, owing to the fact that officials of the United Mine Workers have been indicted on this charge, under the Sherman anti-trust law in the federal courts.

Governor Glasscock and the civil authorities of Kanawha county defended the declaration of martial law in the strike zone.

"There was a reign of terror in the strike district," said the former governor, "twenty-five or thirty murders had been committed and no prosecution had been held in the courts. I considered that martial law was an absolute necessity."

Mrs. Servel told the committee through an interpreter that guards came to her home and when she refused to give them a key to a trunk in her bed room, struck her and knocked her down.

She said a child was born to her two months later dead.

MEMBERS OF BEN FRANKLIN CLUBS GATHER IN SPRINGFIELD

Assemble For Purpose of Studying Cost and Efficiency of Printing Business.

Springfield, Ill., June 13.—Four hundred members of the Ben Franklin Clubs of Illinois assembled here to day for the purpose of studying the cost and efficiency of the printing business. The convention is known as the second annual Illinois Printers' cost congress.

Governor Dunne and Mayor Schnepf delivered the addresses of welcome. They were responded by President Frank Brown of Peoria. The convention which will continue until tomorrow, wound up their first day's meeting with an elaborate banquet tonight with former Senator Thomas Rees of the Illinois State Register, Springfield as toastmaster.

TWO AVIATORS KILLED

London, June 13.—Lieutenant James R. B. Kennedy of the naval wing of the royal flying corps, was killed and C. Gordon Bell, another aviator seriously injured in the fall of a monoplane near the Brooklands aerodrome today. Bell was driving the machine with Kennedy as a passenger.

HADLEY ADDRESSES REPUBLICAN CLUB

ONLY SPEAKER AT "GET-TOGETHER" MEETING AT CAMPAIGN

Gives As Real Cause of Split in Republican Party, a Difference of Opinion Over Method of Control and Said Only Remedy is Direct Primary.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., June 13.—Five hundred men from central Illinois gathered in Elks auditorium in Champaign Friday morning to hear Herbert S. Hadley, former governor of Missouri. Mr. Hadley was the only speaker for a meeting of the "get-together" Republican club of Champaign. W. B. McKinley former congressman from the nineteenth district of Illinois attended, but was conspicuous only in the background.

Opinion of Methods of Control Differ.
Mr. Hadley gave as the real cause of the split in the Republican party a difference of opinion over the methods of control in the party and the only remedy for this control is the direct primary. He referred to a conference of party leaders to which he said he was going, in an eastern city, and said that he hoped this conference would result in action that would make changes in the methods of control of the party and the tickets. He said that he regarded the vote of last November as a vote of protest against political manipulation. Charges he said were readily accepted all of last year without need of proof being submitted, bringing about turmoil that has not yet subsided.

Direct Primaries a Remedy.
"There were 50 delegates in the last convention elected by direct primaries and over those 450 delegates how many contests were made. Just one and that was a question of law. By direct primaries and I hope they will come in the future—there would not have been any contest, a division of our party and the party defeat in the last convention."

"Controversies were not over policies but over the question of party control," he said. "No inactive or unaggressive leadership shall survive. We should correct the basis of representation that furnishes the incentive to political control. I hope to see within the next six months assembled a national convention of some other body to deal with this question of establishing for us a basis of representation in national councils that will make our national councils truly representative of public opinion within the ranks of the Republican party. I hope to see such changes in our rules as will show a recognition of public opinion in the selection of Representatives who shall represent our parties through the states."

Is Not Party of Negation.
"I do not want you to think the Republican party a party of negation or that it will have success simply through Democratic mistakes. We ought to settle this tariff question and settle it right. If we had settled it four years ago we would not have had any differences and would have been in control of the nation. We stand for a correction of conditions that may work for a continued achievement in the future as in the past."

ESTATE OF COL. J. J. ASTOR APPRAISED AT $88,000,000

Largest Share, $68,964,499, Goes to Vincent Astor—Large Inheritance Tax.

New York, June 13.—The estate of Col. John Jacob Astor, who perished in the Titanic disaster, was officially appraised this afternoon at $88,000,000, of which Vincent Astor receives $68,964,499; Mrs. Madeline Force Astor, $7,678,896; Muriel Astor, $4,856,758, and John Jacob Astor, son by his second marriage, $2,922,672.

Aside from the announcement of the amounts that revert to the heirs there are two features of special interest in the appraisal.

One is the affidavit of the examiners that the property embraced in the ante-nuptial agreement for Mrs. Ava Willing Astor amounting to about $1,738,000, which was to have reverted to her at the time of her husband's death, now terminates and goes to Vincent Astor for the reason that the youth's mother, although once Col. Astor's wife, was never his widow. Mrs. Ava Willing Astor divorced her husband, whose legal widow is Mrs. Madeline Force Astor.

The two ante-nuptial trusts for Mrs. Madeline Force Astor total $1,450,000.

The second feature concerns the inheritance tax of Col. Astor. The estate saved a large sum by paying $3,150,000 to the state last October, within six months of Col. Astor's death, this payment earning a 5 per cent rebate. A sum mentioned greatly exceeds any amount ever paid to any state as an inheritance tax it is declared.

STOPS ALL UNNECESSARY WORK

St. Paul, Minn., June 13.—Orders have been issued by James J. Hill, stopping all work on the Great Northern railroad lines that is not absolutely necessary according to an announcement made to day at the general offices of the road. It was said the action was taken as a result of the recent supreme court decision in the Minnesota rate cases.

INSISTS ON FURTHER MONEY TRUST PROBE

Henry Charges That Wall Street is Back of Currency Legislation

FAVORS LAWS' REVISION

Declares Pujo Committee Barely Scratched Surface of Facts Underlying Money Concentration

GLASS TO INTRODUCE BILL

WASHINGTON, June 13.—An under-current of opposition among a considerable number of house Democrats to the plan for currency legislation at this session of congress took definite shape to day when Representative Henry of Texas, chairman of the powerful rules committee openly charged that Wall street was back of the propaganda for currency legislation. While favoring revision of both the banking and currency laws at the next session of congress Mr. Henry insisted that further investigation of the so-called money trust should be immediately pressed.

"Barely Scratched Surface"
"The Pujo committee," he declared, "barely scratched the surface of the facts underlying the concentration of control of money and credit, because the controller of the currency refused access to his records making it impossible for the investigators to completely expose the existing relations between the Wall street bankers and their allies with the trusts and monopolies, stock gamblers and financial conspirators."

"Wall street bankers," he declared, "now are demanding legislation on the currency question in order that they may make a market for their commercial paper (much of it based on rotten securities) and have currency issued on their assets."

Mr. Henry introduced a bill to amend the banking laws, so as to make banking associations subject to the vistorial powers, "exercised or directed" by congress or by either house of congress.

Glass to Introduce Bill

While this was going on it became known that the administration measure representing the combined views of President Wilson, Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, Senator Owen of Oklahoma, chairman of the senate banking and currency committee and Representative Glass, chairman of the house committee would be introduced in the house next Tuesday and that the full committee of the house probably would meet to take up the bill within a day or two later. President Wilson is expected to send a message on the subject probably Tuesday. Mr. Glass had a long conference to day with Secretary McAdoo going over the details of the bill.

Would Regulate Elections

Representative Hinbaugh of Illinois to day introduced a bill to provide for uniform preferential primaries for presidential nominations. The measure also would regulate the election of the delegates to national conventions. This is one of the various bills on the Progressive legislative program.

OFFER REWARD FOR MURDERED

Galesburg, Ill., June 13.—Relatives of Professor Charles Lindt, who was shot and beaten to death in his home Tuesday, today offered a reward of $1,000 for the capture of his murderer.

Detectives who have been working with bloodhounds have been unable to get a trace of the murderer. Prof. Lindt was shot three times and brutally beaten on the face.

ENGINEER OF TRAIN ARRESTED

Stamford, Conn., June 13.—Engineer Doherty of the ill-fated New Haven train, wrecked last night, with the loss of several lives and the injury of many passengers, was arrested tonight charged with manslaughter, upon a warrant issued by Assistant Prosecuting Attorney F. W. Huxford. Bail was fixed at $5,000, which was furnished by John Dillon, his brother-in-law.

WILL BEGIN WORK ON SAMPLE CONCRETE ROADWAY

M. W. Watson Representing Illinois Highway Commission Is Here—Gravel Concrete Road Will Connect Main Street Pavement and Bridge.

M. W. Watson, an engineer for the Illinois State Highway commission is in the city making the preliminary arrangements for the building of the concrete road between the end of the North Main street pavement and the long bridge which spans the Maudslayi river bottoms there. Mr. Watson was in consultation yesterday with county commissioners McMillen, Conliss and Rogge and he will remain here until after the work is completed.

The road will be eighteen feet wide and the concrete will be of washed gravel, no piece of which is larger than one inch in diameter. The mixture will be very rich in cement which will insure its lasting quality. The road will have a crown sufficient to provide the proper drainage. A sample roadway of like construction was built near the state fair grounds several years ago and has given excellent satisfaction. This year LaSalle and Highland are among the Illinois cities which will secure some roadway of this type. It is a comparatively new system of construction for Illinois as has been used in this state only a few years but in Michigan and other states the method of construction is very popular and has stood the test of time in fine shape. In one county in Michigan there are twenty three miles of such roads. For the sample roadway the state provides most of the expense the contract which it enters into with cities or counties has clauses about as follows:

Contract Provisions.

"That the State Highway Commission furnish the necessary machinery, material and supervision, and freight on machinery to and from the point of construction. We, on our part, hereby agree to assist in unloading and reloading machinery, furnish the coal, oil and waste necessary to operate machinery, and either furnish watchman or be responsible to machinery while in our township. We also further agree to pay freight on material, and may all further cost of construction. It is understood that all construction will be done strictly in accordance with the directions of the State Highway Commission. We, therefore, request the State Highway Engineer to visit in order to advise as to most suitable material and methods to be used the probable cost of proposed improvement and concerning other matters that may be connected with construction of said improvement."

It is understood that the expenses incurred by the representative of the State Highway Commission in making this trip will be borne by said Commission, and that no charge will be made for services rendered."

Mr. Watson has been with the Illinois Highway Commission for the past two years and prior to that time was in the war department government service working in connection with the improvement of rivers.

Concrete Roads.

"Concrete pavements present many characteristics totally unlike other forms of pavement in much more general use. A concrete pavement is a hard, rigid, monolithic surface and is properly to be classed as a sheet pavement. Practically all other forms or rigid surface pavements are of the block type, while all other sheet pavements are somewhat resilient. The fact that concrete pavements are composed of large monolithic slabs of rather brittle material, having a coefficient of expansion due to temperature, differing not greatly from that of steel, makes it necessary to consider certain features of construction not usually important in other forms of pavement."

"The fact that a concrete road is rigid results in the surface layer being subjected to far greater impact stresses than is received by a pavement of a more resilient type. The strength of concrete to resist stresses of all character depends on the strength of the matrix or mortar holding the aggregate together assuming that have an aggregate of sound hard particles. The concrete being made of various sized particles held together by the matrix, it becomes necessary that none of these particles is loosened under the action of traffic."

Expansion of Joints.

"Owing to the constant movement of a concrete pavement due to temperature changes, it is impossible to prevent cracks forming. On hot days the pavement tends to lengthen, and on cold days to shorten. It is evident that the cracks form when the pavement tends to shorten."

"If expansion joints are placed from forty to fifty feet apart and on the assumption that the coefficient of friction of the pavement with the subsoil is one, the tensile strength under low temperature will be 20 to 25 pounds per square inch. While this is not too high an allowance for the tensile strength of concrete of the type recommended for concrete roads, it is evident that whether such a stress or greater one exerted, depends entirely upon what is the coefficient of friction. However, there is very evidence to suppose that joints may be placed even farther apart than 50 feet with entire safety."

"Expansion joints should not be laid at right angles with the direction of the road, for there is likely to be formed at an expansion joint a slight unevenness in the surface. If this is the case, then two wheels of a vehicle will strike it at the same time and the irregularities become noticeable, whereas if the joint is placed at an angle with the direction of travel, the wheels on the opposite sides of the vehicle will pass over the unevenness, if there is any, in succession and greatly reduce its effect."

"It is recommended that expansion joints be placed at an angle of 60 degrees with the center line of the road, and that successive joints be not parallel, swing first one joint 60 degrees in one direction and the succeeding just 60 degrees in the opposite direction, which will tend to reduce any cumulative vibrations. "In order to protect the edges of expansion joints, they may be faced with steel plates which are manufactured for this purpose, and are cut to fit the crown of the road."

The Lack of Mortar.

"One explanation to be offered for failures of concrete roads due to disintegration or raveling under traffic is probably as much a lack of mortar in the concrete as a lack of cement in the mortar. The conclusion from observation is that with a given aggregate there will be little difference between roads built in proportion of 1, 2-12; 1, 2, 4; or 1, 1-1-2; 3; for in each instance, assuming that the aggregate runs precisely the same, there is but 50 per cent mortar, and where a 1, 2, 4, mixture might have given unsatisfactory results, this condition would not be greatly bettered by using merely a richer mortar. What should be done is to increase the per cent of mortar."

"Each batch of concrete as deposited in the road should be watched that the mortar does not flow to the edge of the pile and leave a core of aggregate unsupported with sufficient mortar. At least one workman should be assigned to shovel all such cores or aggregate to the bottom of the concrete layer so as to insure only cement rich in mortar at the surface. If this is not done, depressions will develop in the surface under traffic which will loosen the clusters of pebbles of the aggregate which do not have sufficient mortar to hold them fairly in place. The men finishing the surface should be warned not to let such places go by them without shoveling out the pebble clusters and replacing them with a richer mixture. A finisher can easily cover such a place by working a film of mortar on the surface without necessarily filling the voids below."

Amount of Cement to Use.

"In all cases the amount of cement to be used must be carefully proportioned from the amount of sand. With a uniformly graded material, the amount of sand depends upon the size of particles we arbitrarily determine to be called sand, which is often taken to be all of the material passing a one-quarter inch mesh. The amount of sand being ascertained, the amount of cement is thus determined for a given volume of the gravel. Most gravel carried a high percentage of sand as compared to the aggregate."

"There would thus be required in a cubic yard of concrete under these conditions, more cement than if the sand was not in excess. It will oftentimes be found economical to add screened gravel, so as to bring the sand and the aggregate more nearly to the desired proportion. It has already been pointed out that it is important to have a large proportion of mortar, not less than 60 per cent of the volume of the aggregate. For example, with proportions of 1, 3, 5; 1, 2-1-2, 4; or 1, 3, 3-1-2, the mortar is about 60 per cent of the aggregate in each case."

"It has been pretty well established that the leaner mixtures, 1, 3, 6; 1, 3, 5, are not satisfactory in concrete pavement work. The present practice of the Illinois highway commission is a mixture of 1, 2, 3-1-2."

Thickness of Concrete.

"The thickness of concrete roads does not need to be greater than the same condition of subgrade would demand of a macadam pavement. If the subgrade is properly prepared and well drained there would seem to be little reason for a concrete road to be over 6 or 7 inches thick. It should be borne in mind, however, that owing to the monolithic and brittle character of the concrete slab, it is very necessary, perhaps even more so than with the macadam construction, to have a perfectly drained subgrade. Also as a matter of economy in construction, it is important that the subgrade be prepared carefully and truly to cross sections and grades, so that additional concrete, which is expensive, need not be employed to fill depressions and uneven places in the subgrade; but it is better that the subgrade be a trifle too low than too high in order to avoid thin places in the concrete from the latter cause."

Making the Crown.

"The surface of a concrete road will need no more crown than is absolutely necessary to keep it free from water that may fall upon it. Aside from draining the water, the road should not be made too flat, as it will not have as pleasing an appearance as one with a somewhat curved surface. If the center is raised about 3-8 of an inch to the top above the sides and then a curve passed through this point and the sides, a very satisfactory crown is made and one that by no means is inconvenient for traffic. On roads of 30 feet or over this could be reduced somewhat, possibly as low as 1-4 of an inch to the foot."

TO TAKE PART IN SHOOT.

Lieut. William T. Harmon of Co. B. will go to Springfield today with team from the company to take part in the regimental shoot that will be held there Sunday. Teams from the twelve companies of the Fifth regiment will participate in practice to day and in the shoot tomorrow, when a team from the regiment will be chosen for the state shoot. The eight men who are going from this city are: Sergeants Julian Capps and L. P. Burke and Privates S. Armstrong, Edward Alexander, Paul Strawn, Frank Maals and Harrison Jackson. Capt. Owen will go over Sunday morning."

GENIUS OF A PAINTER.

Da Vinci's Prayer and Triumph of Art While Still a Pupil.

It is told of Leonardo da Vinci that while still a pupil, before his genius burst into brilliancy, he received a special inspiration in this way:

His old and famous master because of his growing infirmities of age felt obliged to give up his own work and one day bade Da Vinci finish for him a picture which he had begun. The young man had such reverence for his master's skill that he shrank from the task. The old artist, however, would not accept any excuse, but persisted in his command, saying simply, "Do your best."

Da Vinci at last tremblingly seized the brush and, kneeling before the easel, said the following prayer: "It is for the sake of my beloved master that I implore skill and power for this undertaking." As he proceeded his hand grew steady, his eye awoke with slumbering genius. He forgot himself and was filled with enthusiasm for his work.

When the painting was finished the old master was carried into the studio to pass judgment on the result. His eyes rested on a triumph of art. Throwing his arms around the young artist, he exclaimed, "My son, I paint no more."

KADIAK ISLAND BEARS.

White and Furry, They Are Monsters In Size and Weight.

The biggest bears in the world are to be found on Kodiak Island, in the gulf of Alaska, south of the great shoulder of territory that stretches out into the Pacific. The Kodiak bears are of the polar breed, perfectly white, with long, heavy fur, and at full growth are twice as large as the black bear of the Rocky mountains. They weigh 2,400 to 3,000 pounds, stand as high as an ordinary cow and are the biggest carnivorous animals living. The tracks they leave in the snow have often measured fifteen inches in length and ten inches in width. They are savage and fight desperately when attacked.

Bear traps are usually baited with honey, but the Kodiak trappers use a pig. Bears are uncommonly fond of pork, and a pig when imprisoned in a trap makes a demonstration which attracts the attention of the bears at a longer distance than the odor of honey.

Kodiak is wooded and mountainous, but it has good natural harbors. There is a population of some 1,500, mostly Eskimos, living on the coast and engaged in the salmon fishing industry.

WILL CONTEST WILL OF THE LATE SOPHRONIA HARDING

A. J. Harding, a brother of the deceased of this county brings suit in Cass County Court.

A suit has been filed in the circuit court of Cass county by Andrew J. Harding, who will contest the will of his mother, Mrs. Sophronia B. Harding, who died last month. The Virginia Gazette, in speaking of the suit says:

"Andrew J. Harding of Morgan county has filed a bill in the circuit court to contest the will of the late Sophronia B. Harding, who died in this county May 17, 1912. The will was written in July, 1907, and the heirs at law are Wilbur D. and Andrew J. Harding, Pamela B. Larmann, Eliza H. Hayes and Lee E. Darby.

"The son, who brings the suit, was not to share in the property under the will. He alleges his mother was in her dotage at the time it was signed and that her mind was so impaired that she was incapable of making a will. He also alleges undue influence on the part of two of the daughters on their mother when the document was drawn. The will has been admitted to probate and Wilbur D. Harding appointed executor.

JEALOUSY OVER WOMAN CAUSES TWO TO ENGAGE IN PISTOLDUEL

After Both Are Mortally Wounded Woman Jumps From Second Story and Escapes From House.

Kansas City, June 13.—Jealousy over a woman caused W. G. Caper, 44 years old and Martin Donaldson, aged 30 years to engage in a pistol duel in the narrow hallway of Caper's here tonight and both men were wounded fatally. The men quarreled when Donaldson tried to induce his wife to leave Caper's home where she had been employed as a domestic. Caper ordered Donaldson away but he refused to leave both men drew their pistols and began shooting. Mrs. Donaldson hid in an upstairs room, but Mrs. Caper who was present helped her husband in the fight. Both men emptied their pistols and each was shot four times. Mrs. Caper reloaded her husband's weapon but he fainted before he could use it again.

Donaldson accused Caper of trying to induce his wife to separate from him.

After both were mortally hurt, Mrs. Donaldson jumped from a second story window and escaped from the house.

SUNDAY CIVIL APPROPRIATION BILL ONLY NEEDS APPROVAL OF WILSON

Measure is Almost Exact Duplicate of One Vetted by President Taft at End of His Administration.

Washington, June 13.—Only the approval of the president is now needed to make a law of the sundry civil appropriation bill with the exemption of labor organizations and farmers' association from anti-trust prosecutions with funds provided by the measure.

By a vote of 46 to 21 the senate today rejected from its opposition to an item in the bill as it passed the house, reducing the number of members of the board of managers of national soldiers' homes from eleven to five. This was the only remaining item of disagreement between the two houses.

Senator Burton of Ohio and Senator Sherman of Illinois, attacked the proposed reduction as false economy. Senator Newlands of Nevada denounced the action of the house in insisting upon legislating in an appropriation bill as indefensible and dangerous.

Senator Works, of California, expressed himself in favor of abolishing the entire board and placing the management of the homes under war department.

It is almost an exact duplicate of the measure vetted by President Taft at the end of his administration because it contained the provision that some of the money appropriated for the enforcement of the Sherman anti-trust law should be used to prosecute labor organizations or farmers' associations. Delay in acting on the measure has embarrassed various branches of the government some of the departmental bureaus being left entirely without funds.

Only yesterday the department of commerce announced that the inhabitants of the Bible Islands, Alaska, were on the verge of famine because the bureau of fisheries was without money with which to despatch a supply vessel due to be sent long ago.

A WORKER APPRECIATES THIS.

Wm. Morris, a resident of Florence, Oregon, says: "For the last fourteen years my kidneys and bladder incapacitated me for all work. About eight months ago I began using Foley Kidney Pills, and they have done what other medicines failed to do, and now I am doing and feeling fine. I heartily recommend Foley Kidney Pills." Foley Kidney Pills do not contain habit forming drugs and are tonic in acting, quick in results. They will help any case of kidney trouble not beyond the reach of medicine.—City Drug Co.—J. A. Obermeyer.

"BRIDGIE" WEBBER STABBED IN BACK EARLY THIS MORNIGN

One of Principal Witnesses in Rosenthal Murder Case Refuses to Tell Who Wounded Him—Will Recover.

New York, June 14.—"Bridgie" Webber, one of the principal witnesses in the Rosenthal murder case, was stabbed in the back on an East Side street early this morning.

Shortly before 1 o'clock a man whose identity was then unknown, walked up to a policeman at the corner of Ninth street and Broadway and complained that he was suffering from loss of blood as the result of a stab wound. He described himself as Louis Harris, a broker, 35 years old, but the hospital detectives recognized him as Webber. The man refused to tell the police who had stabbed him or of any of the circumstances. He will recover.

Shortly after conviction of Police Lieutenant Charles Becker, and four gunmen as the murderers of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler, there were many rumors of plots against the witnesses, but the attack on Webber this morning is the first instance of harm that has come to any of the men.

It was reported at 3:15 that Webber had lapsed into unconsciousness and the hospital physicians admitted his condition was serious on account of a great loss of blood.

Webber and a friend, John Michaels, were walking from Third avenue to the Astor Place subway station when the stabbing occurred. Webber evidently tried to hide his wound but as he approached Broadway a policeman saw his stagger and Webber's friend was unable to support him. While an ambulance was being summoned Webber sat exhausted on the curb in front of Grace Church trying to stop the flow of blood. Neither Webber nor his friend Michaels would tell much about the stabbing.

Webber asked that his wife be notified and she was summoned to the hospital by telephone. A number of his friends were quick to learn of the stabbing and by three o'clock twenty five or thirty had gathered at the hospital.

FIGHTING BETWEEN MOROS AND AMERICANS CONTINUES

Attempts to Rush American Lines Repulsed With Heavy Losses.

Manila, June 13.—Fierce fighting continues between the American forces under Brig. Gen. Pershing and the rebellious Moros at Bagsak. The Moros still hold one fort.

Their attempts to rush the American lines with bolos, which are made with fanatical gallantry are always repulsed with heavy losses. To day the Americans will attack in strength and their success seems certain.

Their latest casualties are one scout killed and one man of the hospital corps wounded.

REVISION OF PRIMARY ELECTION LAW ADVANCED IN HOUSE

Springfield, Ill., June 13.—The revision of the primary election law, prepared by the house committee on primary elections and reported to the house as a committee bill was read a second time in the house to night and advanced to third reading.

In the form which the bill was sent to third reading it provides that the presidential primary be held on the second Tuesday in April of the year in which presidential candidates are to be nominated. The state primaries are to be held on the first Wednesday after the first Tuesday in September in the years in which state, county and municipal officers are to be nominated. In effect this leaves sixty days for the campaign between the primary and the election.

The revised bill also provides that women shall vote at the primaries for the nomination of officers as they are allowed to vote under the woman suffrage act.

Amends Adjournment Resolution.

The house amended the sine die adjournment resolution sent over from the senate so as to end the work of the session on next Friday night, June 20, and adjourn sine die ten days later on June 30. Later the senate concurred in the house amendment.

Two administration measures previously passed by the senate were passed by the house today. One was the fish and game consolidation bill, the other was the legislative reference bureau measure. Some changes were made in both measures and they must go back to the senate for concurrence.

BRAZILIAN MINISTER HONORED

Washington, June 13.—The United States senate honored Dr. Lauro Muller, Brazilian minister of foreign affairs today by recessing to receive him when he visited the capital. Escorted by Senator O'Gorman he was presented first to Vice President Marshall and then stood behind the speaker's rostrum and was introduced to the senators as they passed. Senator Root, whose visit to Brazil the caller, is returning was most hearty in his greeting.

HAIR TELLS CHARACTER

Order of Hair Said to Indicate a Person's Temperament.

Many people believe that blonde, or light hair denotes affection and dark hair constancy. A person without hair is not devoid of character, far from it.
The disposition of the average bald-headed man is to show such solicitude for the welfare of others, that he neglects himself. A germ causes baldness.
Prof. Sabouraud, of Paris, France, invoked a rabbit with Dandruff germs, causing it to become totally bald in five weeks' time. To rid the scalp of these dangerous germs it is necessary to apply Nedra's Herpicide.

MANY ODD FELLOWS WILL ATTEND DEDICATION

Members of Illini Lodge Expect Great Time When Seventy-Fifth Anniversary is Observed in New Home.

As already announced Illini lodge No. 4, I. O. O. F. of this city will dedicate their new temple on East State street and observe the seventy-fifth anniversary of the organization of the lodge on Wed-

JOHN E. JENNINGS.
Grand Master I. O. O. F. of Illinois.

nesday, Thursday and Friday, June 25, 26 and 27th. An elaborate program of exercises befitting the occasion has been prepared. Grand Master Jennings of Sullivan, accompanied by the grand lodge officers will be here and will have a prominent part in the program.

Another feature will be the Odd Fellows' Orphans Home band of Lincoln consisting of twenty pieces.
The band will lead the parade on Wednesday and will furnish music at other times during the three days.

Invitations have been sent out to the subordinate lodges throughout central Illinois and the secretary of the grand lodge has notified all lodges in the state relative to the special session of the grand lodge for the purpose of conferring the past grand degree.

An auto ride over the city and luncheon at Nichols park, both free to all visitors, it is expected will

JOHN H. SIKES.
Grand Secretary I. O. O. F. of Illinois.

prove an interesting entertainment feature. The receptions Wednesday day and Thursday evenings, one for the members of the order and their wives on Wednesday, and one for the general public and their ladies on Thursday will afford an opportunity of forming and renewing acquaintanceships. There will be a musical program and brief addresses on both evenings.

Illini lodge has four brethren who have been Odd Fellows over fifty years and these members will be given a conspicuous place in the proceedings of the three days.

The school of instruction will be under the direction of Brothers Blood and Darnall and a great time is expected on Friday. The dedication is already big with promise and all Odd Fellows and their friends are cordially invited and urged to attend.

QUICK RELIEF FOR RHEUMATISM

George W. Koon, Lawton, Mich., says: "Dr. Detchon's Relief for Rheumatism has given my wife wonderful benefit for rheumatism.
She could not lift hand or foot, had to be lifted for two months. She began to use of the remedy and improved rapidly. On Monday she could not move and on Wednesday
she got up dressed herself and walked out for breakfast." Sold by

BUTTE MINERS CELEBRATE.

Butte, Mont., June 13.—The Butte local of the United Mine Workers of America, one of the largest and most influential local unions of the entire organization, today held a monster celebration to mark the thirty-fifth anniversary of its founding. The mines suspended operations for the day and a general holiday was observed. A big parade this morning was followed in the afternoon by an outdoor demonstration at Columbia Gardens. Speeches were made by John H. Walker and Adolph Germer, officials of the Mine Workers, and
M. M. Donoghue, president of the Montana Federation of Labor.

TRADE PRESENTS MANY FAVORABLE FEATURES

BANKS DISPLAY WILLINGNESS TO LOOSEN UP.

Tariff Uncertainties, on Other Hand,
Tend to Cause Trade For Future
Account to Operate Under a Pull—
Wholesale Buying Rather Cautious

New York, June 13.—Bradstreet's
tomorrow will say:

Despite unseasonably cold weather
and stock market unsettlement early,
there are many favorable features
presenting themselves this week.
Warmer weather has succeeded the chilling temperatures early experienced, western trade reports are of a rather more optimistic character, based mainly upon expectation of large though not record crops of cereals and the advance northward of the winter wheat harvest, clearance sales of summer goods by jobbers, especially at New York, have been liberally patronized, the sharp rally in stocks after reaching the lowest levels since 1908 shows that the market is no longer one sided and last, but not least, the banks, encouraged apparently by treasury action, have displayed a willingness to loosen up legitimate commercial borrowers.

On the other hand tariff uncertainties tend to cause trade for future account to operate under a pull,
business in iron and steel is receding and shipments continue to make inroads on orders while there is said to be some reduction in consumption of pig iron prices for which are very low and premiums on finished goods for early delivery tend to pass.

Business failures for the week ending June 12 were 239, which compares with 266 in 1912.

Dun's Review of Trade.

Dun's Review tomorrow will say:
While reports regarding retail trade conditions indicate that activity is well sustained at many leading centers, some recession is noted at other and wholesale buying is on the whole rather cautious. The European political situation improved somewhat during the week and was reflected in a stronger tone at all the leading financial centers.

The decision of the supreme court in the Minnesota railway rate case was followed by a severe decline in New York but the market recovered sharply later in the week. The United States treasury announced that emergency notes were immediately available should bankers require them but it is not thought likely that such an issue will be needed.
The government crop report of conditions, although showing a decline in winter wheat indicates that the yield will be next to the largest on record and points to a season of prosperity throughout the vast region where that cereals is the dominant factor.

BANK CLEARINGS.

New York, June 13.—Bradstreet's
bank clearings report for the week ending June 12th, show an aggregate of $3,394,031,000 as against $3,217,- 397,000 last week and $3,332,258,- 000 in the corresponding week last year.

The following is a list of cities:

Take Plenty of Time to Eat.
There is a saying that "rapid eating is slow suicide." If you have formed the habit of eating too rapidly you are most likely suffering from indigestion or constipation, which will result eventually in serious illness unless corrected. Digestion begins in the mouth. Food should be thoroughly masticated and insaliva-ted. Then when you have a fullness of the stomach or feel dull and stupid after eating, take one of Chamberlain's Tablets. Many severe cases of stomach trouble and constipation have been cured by the use of these tablets. They are easy to take and most agreeable in effect. Sold by all dealers.

CHOIR AT GRACE METHODIST CHURCH

On account of the resignation of two members of the choir at Grace
M. E. church, some changes will be made. Albert Strauss, who has been singing bass handed in his resignation to take effect the first of June. Miss Louise Miller, soprano, has gone to Chicago where she will study music under Prof. Frederick Root. Miss Miller's place will be filled by Miss Catherine Rogerson
and Mr. Strauss's place by Prof.
W. A. Gore. Miss Lena Hopper will sing the alto and Mr. Percy Jenkinson, tenor. During the summer months a small chorus choir will furnish music and in the fall the membership will be reinforced so as to have one of the largest chorus choirs in the history of the church.
Under the leadership of Prof. M. L.
Swarthout.

ROOSEVELT AT PHILLIPS ANDOVER.

Andover, Mass., June 13.—Among the notable visitors today at the commencement exercises of Phillips Andover Academy was Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, whose son Archibald is a student at the academy.
Following the graduation exercises
Colonel Roosevelt delivered an address at the alumni dinner in the Borden gymnasium.

AN INCIDENT BLAZE

Sparks from a passing locomotive on the Wabash road set fire to the dead grass along the right of way in the east part of the city Friday morning and only the strenuous use of water by the residents of that vicinity prevented the spread of the flames over a pasture adjoining.
Several fence posts were considerably charred but no further damage was discovered.

LOOKING FOR LOCATION.

H. M. Hecht of Warsaw, Ky., and Max Polz of Paducah, Ky., were in Jacksonville Friday. The gentlemen are interested in women's ready to wear garments and millinery and are here looking for a location.

says:

"No person shall ride any bicycle
on any sidewalk in said city, adjacent to any paved street; and every person violating this section shall be fined not less than five nor more than ten dollars for every offense."

The police department has had numerous complaints about this matter and the officers have been instructed to arrest every one caught violating this ordinance.
Geo. P. Davis,
Chief Police.

FOR MOISSANT MEMORIAL.

New Orleans, La., June 13.—An overturned aeroplane chiseled from a single block of Georgia marble is to mark the spot where John Moissant met his death near this city. The monument committee will meet tomorrow to arrange for the completion of the memorial fund.
Moissant was killed in 1910 after a week of the most spectacular flying that had ever been seen up to that time. He had started on a cross-country flight with an unusually large tank of gasoline. The extra weight is supposed to have caused the machine to overturn. Since the accident Moissant's body has been held in a receiving vault at the Metairie Ridge cemetery. The body will be kept there until the monument is completed, when it will be buried beneath the memorial with appropriate services.

MANY THIRTEENS

Winchester, Va., June 13.—Thirteen graduates today received their diplomas at the commencement exercises of the Winchester high school. The thirteen who by an interesting coincidence closed their school career on Friday the thirteenth were given their diplomas by Professor N. D. Cool, who today concluded his thirteenth year as principal of the high school.

GIANTS TAKE FAST GAME FROM PIRATES

FRED CLARKE RETURNS TO ACTIVE PLAY.

Pittsburgh Uses Coleman, New Catcher From Davenport, Who Plays Well For a Youngster Who Never Saw a Major League Game.

Pittsburgh, June 13.—Fred Clarke selected Friday, June 13th, 1913 as the day for his return to active play after his retirement in 1911 but despite his presence in left field New York took the second game of the series 3 to 2.

Pittsburgh used Coleman, their new catcher secured from Davenport in the Three Eye League. He threw out three Giants who tried to steal and handled himself well for a youngster who never saw a major league game and who was put to work immediately on his arrival because all three Pittsburgh catchers are unfit for work. Savage Angel Fish.

Many fishes, like the knights of old, fight among themselves for the love of fighting or because they have nothing better to do, according to a bulletin of the New York Zoological society. There are others, however, which fight to protect themselves or their young. Speaking of the fights among fishes in the aquarium, the bulletin says: "The angel fishes, beautiful as they are in appearance, have perhaps the most devilish disposition of all. A tank of angel fishes reminds one of the notorious, even tempered family who were all mad all the time." The watchfulness of attendants usually prevents the fatal terminations of these misunderstandings, but occasionally a fatal injury is inflicted. "Such a case," the bulletin adds, "happened when two large green morays engaged in a vicious encounter, during which one of the combatants was disemboweled and had to be killed. These eel-like fishes are extremely powerful and active and coil and strike like snakes.—New York Tribune

Art Tamed the Tigers.

A privileged few may have seen the interesting sight of a sculptor making his studies and models from life for the statues of the two tigers which guard the entrance to Nassau hall at Princeton. The studies were made for the most part in the animal houses near the Arsenal in Central park. At first considerable prodding by the keepers was necessary to induce the zoological samples to come forward when the sculptor wanted them. After a time, however, this is upon the sculptor's solemn word—the beasts got so that when they saw him set up his stand they came forward of their own accord and lay crouched, as he wished. The tigers had learned to pose.—New York Post.

Piece For Little Brother.

The family had been composed of just Raymond, his mother and his father. One evening when Raymond came home from school he was taken into the room where a little mite of humanity lay and was told that it was his baby brother.

Raymond stood silent for a moment and then said, "Well, pop, we'll have to cut the pie in more than three pieces now, won't we?"—Indianapolis News.

Happiest Girl in Lincoln

"I am only too glad to testify to the good qualities of Chamberlain's Tablets," writes Miss Nora G. Haggerty, of Lincoln, Neb. "I had been ailing for some time with chronic constipation, stomach trouble and a terrible misery after eating, when I was taken sick with abscess of the bowels. We had some of the best doctors in Lincoln in attendance, and they all said I would have to be operated on right away. I had heard of Chamberlain's Tablets, and we got a bottle of them. I began to take them and in three days I was able to be up and get better right along. I am the proudest girl in Lincoln to find such a good medicine as these tablets are. I can hardly believe myself that I am strong and healthy now. They saved me from a serious surgical operation."

Along with dyspepsia comes nervousness, sleeplessness and general ill health. Why? Because a disordered stomach does not permit the food to be assimilated and carried to the blood. On the other hand, the blood is charged with poisons which come from this disordered digestion. In turn, the nerves are not fed on good, red blood and we see those symptoms of nervous breakdown. It is not head work that does it, but poor stomach work. With poor thin blood the body is not protected against the attack of germs of grip—bronchitis—consumption. Fortify the body now with

"A TOUGH TOWN."

That Was Joaquin Miller's Description of New York in 1870.

When Joaquin Miller visited New York in 1870 he wrote: "New York at last. And oh, but this is a tough town! And the time I had in landing on this island! I have fought many battles with Indians, I have seen rough men in the rain, but such ruffians as assailed me on landing from the Jersey ferry I have never encountered before. Two of these literally hauled me into a coach. I cried out. They shouted to the crowd and police that I was drunk. And another tough, who said he was my friend, helped them hustle me in and held the door until they dashed away. By and by they stopped and one got down and holding the door, meekly asked me to tell him again what hotel I wanted to go to.

"At the door of the hotel—the Astor House—the only name I could think of or was familiar with, they demanded $5. But what made me mad—mad at myself as well as them—they gave me a Confederate five dollar bill in change. How could they tell that I came from a land where they use only gold, and we can't tell one kind of greasy, green paper from another? Ah, well, I am going to cut off my hair the first thing and get me a new hat."

The next day he writes in his journal: "Starved and shorn! Now let them come after me!"

VENUS DE MILO.

The Mystery of the Missing Arms of the Famous Statue.

Through the publication of some quaint manuscripts which have never before been printed Jean Alcard, the French academician and man of letters, produces evidence that the arms of the Venus de Milo were broken off in a fight between French and Turkish forces for possession of the figure. Both arms, according to the manuscripts, were in place when the statue was first discovered in 1820. The right arm descended a little below the hips, where it held up the draperies, while the left arm was raised above the head and grasped in the hand a small sphere.

The documents published by M. Alcard claim that French naval officers, who were the first Europeans to see the Venus and who were authorized by their government to buy it at any cost, obtained the prize only at the cost of a sharp scrimmage with the crew of a Turkish brig, the commander of which had been instructed by a Greek prince at Constantinople to bring the statue to him. In the struggle, in which fifty sailors took part on each side and in which shots and saber cuts were freely exchanged, the goddess was thrown to the ground, and her arms were broken in pieces.—London Graphic.

To the King's Taste.

King Leopold of Belgium frequented a certain cafe in Paris when he was in the city. He had private apartments on the second floor, where he had his meals served for him.

One night he went to his cafe, but was met by the manager, who told him in great trepidation that he could not have his private dining room that night.

Leopold raised a frightful rumpus. He was king of the Belgians, and he demanded to know who could keep him out of the room. Presently a voice came from behind the door, "Who is that making such a row out there?"

The manager explained, "Oh," said the voice, "let him come in if he likes." King Leopold went in and found the person who had his favorite dining room was the king of England, Edward VII, then Prince of Wales, who knew a good thing himself.—Philadelphia Saturday Evening Post.

First Use of the Monocle.

The monocle, usually associated with the sterner although perhaps not less vain sex, has been worn for a hundred years. The first person to screw a glass in his eye was, according to Sir Horace Rumbold, a Dutch exquisites, Jonkheer Breelle, whose monocle startled the diplomats assembled for the congress of Vienna. The fashion spread rapidly. In Dr. Kitchiner's "Economy of the Eyes," published nine years after the congress, he deplores the fact that a "single glass set in a smart ring is often used by trinket fanciers merely for fashion's sake. These folk have not the least defect in their sight and are not aware of the mischievous consequences of such irritation."—New York Sun.

A Minor Operation.

Mr. Toogood—I went under an operation yesterday. Mr. Markwell—You surprise me. Was it very serious? Mr. Toogood—I had a growth removed from my head. Mr. Markwell—My goodness! And here you are about and looking well. Mr. Toogood—Oh, don't fret, old sport. I only had my hair cut.—London Telegraph.

His Diagnosis.

A London curate the other day received an astonishing answer to an inquiry after a parishioner's health. "Well, sir," said the parishioner, "sometimes I feel anyhow, sometimes I feel now, and there be times when I feel as stiff as a blumidge."

PHYSICIANS FROM MANY STATES IN MINNEAPOLIS

American Medical Association Will Hold Seven Days Sessions There.

Minneapolis, Minn., June 13.—Eminent physicians and surgeons from every part of the United States and Canada, with a number from foreign countries, today filled page after page of the Minneapolis and St. Paul hotel registers with their signatures. They are the delegates and visitors to the annual convention of the American Medical Association which, with the meetings of affiliated bodies, will hold forth here during the ensuing seven days.

With clinics arranged for every department of medicine and surgery a week of splendid scientific work is anticipated. For extensiveness of preparation and elaborateness of detail no such assemblage has been held in Minneapolis for many years. The proceedings of the week began this afternoon with the opening of the thirty-eighth annual meeting of the American Academy of Medicine, which specializes in medical sociology. Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur of San Francisco, president of the academy, occupied the chair at the initial session. Dr. Helen C. Putnam of Providence, R. I., presented the report of a committee appointed to investigate the teachings of hygiene in the public schools, and Dr. John L. Heffron of Syracuse presented a report from a committee named to investigate the teaching of sanitary science in medical schools.

The meeting of the academy will continue over tomorrow. Monday will be devoted to various conferences and on Tuesday the sessions of the American Medical Association will begin. The work of the convention will be divided among the house of delegates, which transacts the business for the association, several general meetings of the association, and the daily sessions of a dozen departments at which will be read about five hundred papers on subjects of medical and surgical interest. The allied organizations that will hold their annual meetings during the week include the American Association of Milk Commissioners, American Association of Medical Librarians, American Association of Teachers of Pediatrics, American Association of Anesthetists and the American Proctological association.

With the exception of the opening session of the American Medical Association convention all of the meetings and conferences of the week will be held at the University of Minnesota. The opening session of the association convention will be held in the Minneapolis auditorium which is the only available building capable of accommodating the 5,000 or more delegates in attendance. A special committee has prepared clinics for the convention and these will occupy a large part of the time of the visiting physicians as will the social programs that have been prepared for the visitors and the wives and families of the physicians.

TO, AILING WOMEN

A Little Sound Advice Will Help Many a Sufferer in Jacksonville.

No woman should consider herself healthy and well if the kidneys are weak. Poisons that pass off in the secretions when the kidneys are well are retained in the body when the kidneys are disordered. If the kidneys and bladder become inflamed and swollen worse troubles may quickly follow. This is often the cause of bearing down pains, lameness, backache, etc. Uric poisoning is also frequent cause of headaches, dizzy spells, languor, nervousness and rheumatic pain.

When suffering so, try Doan's Kidney Pills, a remedy that has proven effective in thousands of such cases. Let a Jacksonville woman tell of her experience.

Mrs. Eva Martin, 902 Hackett avenue, Jacksonville, Ill., says: "I have taken Doan's Kidney Pills for several years and I know them to be a good, reliable remedy. When I have a pain in my back and my kidneys do not act regularly, I get Doan's Kidney Pills at Armstrong's Drug Store. They bring me great relief and I have no hesitation in saying so."

AND RETURN. On sale daily, June 1 to Sept. 30. Limit thirty days. Good via Chicago or direct to Detroit.

Detroit, located at the northern boundary, is noted as one of the most beautiful cities in the country; fine parks, miles of pretty boulevard, modern hotels and an ideal summer climate make it the "Mecca of the Summer Tourist." Belle Island Park, an island of seven hundred acres, situated in the middle of the Detroit river, about two and one-half miles from the center of the city, is one of the most attractive public parks of the country. From Detroit many side trips of one and two days are available by lake, river and rail at nominal expense, including the Flats of the St. Clair, Huronia Beach, Port Huron, Chatham and Windsor, Ont., Put-in-Bay, Toledo, Cleveland, Buffalo, Niagara Falls, etc.

Buffalo, Niagara Falls and Toronto

Agricultural News Valuable To Farmers

FARM QUESTIONS ARE DEMANDING SOLUTION

JAMES J. HILL CALLED FARM
BASIS OF ALL INDUSTRY.

Study of Census Facts Shows That Food Supply Will Need Serious Consideration At No Distant Day.

If "the farm is the basis of all industry," as was recently stated by James J. Hill, then science should not fall in its duty to the farmer; for American agriculture is approaching a crisis, and the use of science must be dependent upon to provide adequate support for our rapidly increasing population.

Already the question of food has begun to exert dangerous pressure in the United States, but so much of error and misconception has been promulgated that even those who are to occupy the places of highest responsibility and influence are likely to be led into false positions whose foundations can only crumble beneath their feet.

There is no fiction in the starving poverty of our race in India, nor in the frequent famines in Russia, nor in the history of the dark ages following the ancient civilization of our people in the Mediterranean countries; and neither should the plans for the future prosperity of the Aryan in America be based upon fiction.

Food Production Cost Too Great.

Unquestionably there is now too large expense in getting the foodstuffs from the producer to the consumer; but the fact still remains that if insufficient foodstuffs are produced there will be an insufficient supply; and the real danger is that in the struggle and warfare over means and methods of marketing and distribution the basic fact upon which ultimate prosperity must depend will continue unrecognized.

Fortunately, there is a trustworthy measure applied to the progress or retrogression of this country every ten years, when every farmer and land owner in all the states must make a sworn statement to the bureau of census in regard to his fields and crops and herds.

While the census reveals an increase in the population of contiguous continental United States of 21 per cent during the last decade (from 76,000,000 to 92,000,000 people) the bureau of census also found an increase of only 4.8 in farm land and an increase of 15.4 per cent in farmed land, which means the land used for the production of crops, including pasture for live stock.

But has our increased production amounted to more than 21 per cent? No. The report of the bureau of census shows only 1.7 per cent increase in the total production of all crops, including corn, wheat, oats, barley, rice, buckwheat, kafir corn, emmer and speltz, the aggregate production having been 4,439,000,000 bushels in 1899 and 4,513,000,000 bushels in 1909; and a comparison of the crop "statistics" of the department of agriculture for these years with the averages for the three year periods, 1898 to 1900, and 1908 to 1910, respectively, shows that, on the whole, 1909 was a slightly more favorable season than was 1899, for the production of the cereal crops.

An increase of 15.4 per cent in farmed land with an increase of only 1.7 per cent in production reveals the truth of reduced yield per acre. This established American fact should be recognized.

No Increase of Live Stock.

We might expect and hope that a much larger increase would be found in the live stock produced during the decade on the farms of the United States, but instead we find no increase at all. In fact the number of cattle decreased by 6,000,000 (from 68,000,000 to 62,000,000 head); the swine decreased by 5,000,000 (from 63,000,000 to 58,000,000 head); while horses and mules increased by less than 3,000,000 (from 22,500,000 to 24,000,000 on farms, and from 25,000,000 to 27,000,000 all told, including those in cities). The total of year the counts were taken varied by six weeks, June 1, for with possible allowances for this variations, the number of cattle, sheep and swine plainly decreased during the decade.

The cotton crop showed a substantial increase of 11.7 per cent in total production, and, furthermore, 1909 seems not to have been a favorable season for cotton; but, on the other hand, the average that cotton increased 32 per cent from 1899 to 1909; and the combined reports of the department of agriculture (on acreage) and of the bureau of census (on production) reveal the fact that the yield per acre for the four years 1907, 1908, 1909, 1910 and 1911, was also less than the average for the four years 1897, 1898, 1900 and 1901.

The reports of the bureau of census shows that the only important increase in crops of large significance for food is in potatoes, a crop that is grown to a considerable extent on the market gardens enriched by heavy applications of animal fertilizers from the city, produced, of course, at the expense of the farms which supply the cities with hay and grain.

When we consider the facts revealed by the bureau of census it is not strange that, in order to feed our increasing population, we were compelled to decrease our exportation of wheat for making bread, and of corn for making meat.

Grain Exports Decreased.

As an average for the first four years of Secretary Wilson's administration (1897 to 1900) compared with the average for 1907 to 1910, our annual exportation decreased from 219,000,000 to 108,000,000 bushels of wheat, and from 196,000,000 to 94,000,000 bushels of corn. (These also the established American facts. In per centage of total "estimated" production, the corn exports decreased from 10 per cent to 2 per cent, and wheat exports decreased from 37 per cent of our population for 1897 to 1900, to only 16 per cent of the production for 1907 to 1910.)

In his address before the National Conservation congress at Kansas City, in September, 1911, the president of the United States reported that the total possible future increase in the farm land of this country is only 9 per cent; and to secure this increase requires large expense in drainage and irrigation. What then, is the solution of the stupendous problem now before the United States? In a word, it is to increase the production and to limit reproduction, especially the reproduction of the unfit, for whose support in charitable and penal institutions half the total revenues of most states is now required, while investigation and education for the productive classes suffers accordingly.

OLD RAGS USED IN SOME WOOLEN CLOTH

GREAT DEMAND HAS RESULTED IN ADULTERATIONS.

Cotton and Wool Often a Good Combination—Expert Tells How to Detect Use of Shoddy.

By Charlotte M. Gibbs, University of Illinois.
(By Courtesy of Whitcomb & Barrows, Boston.)

The adulterations of wool are more serious than those of cotton. The excellent qualities of wool, its warmth, its ability to keep its shape and smoothness through long wearing, the richness of material made from it, the ease with which it absorbs and retains dyes, all contribute to create the immense demand for woolen cloth. At the present time demand so far exceeds the supply that one-third of the woolen cloth on the market is made from old rags worked back into fiber and respun. This made over wool, or shoddy, appears in various forms. It may be quite good in quality and be woven into woolen cloth without the addition of new wool. A small quantity of new wool or of cotton may be mixed with shoddy, when a better wearing material will be the result. Short fibers, either the shoddy or the clippings from tailors' shops, sweepings from looms, etc., may be matted into the surface of cloth to add weight and thickness. This treatment may often be detected by raveling threads from the cloth, when the very short fibers drop out. Shoddy supplies a cheap wool, with good warmth, but does not look as rich as a more expensive cloth or wear as long as new wool. The threads from a piece of shoddy break easily, and when saved the short fibers are exposed. Under the microscope broken and imperfect fibers may be detected, as well as unevenness in size of thread or in color.

Adulterating Wool.

The use of cotton to adulterate wool is very common and because of the felting property of wool much cotton may be concealed in a woolen cloth. In worsted cotton it is more easily to detect, as it may not be carded with the wool, but a spun thread of cotton can be "mixed" with a spun thread of wool. Burning serves to distinguish cotton from wool, although this is not an exact test. Cotton burns much more quickly than wool and with more flame; wool has an odor of burnt feathers, charrs and leaves a crisp ash. The broken end of a wool thread shows fibers stiffer and more kinky than the broken end of a cotton thread. Here the microscopic test is most satisfactory.

In some materials the mixture of cotton and wool is a good one. Especially is this true in undergarments, when the cotton comes next to the body, absorbs the moisture quickly, and gives it up gradually to the wool outside. The manufacturer, however, is not always willing to say that his undergarments contain cotton. "Wool" union suits have been found with varying amounts of cotton, from about ten per cent to perhaps 90 per cent, and some "all wool" garments are really all wool. In dress material the greatest objection to the mixture of wool and cotton is the uneven shrinkage of the two, which makes it impossible to keep the material well pressed. There are exceptions to this in mohair and alpaca, where the wool is much more hair-like and does not shrink and felt as sheep's wool does. In this case the cotton is not considered an adulteration, as the material is sold for all wool and does not command a high price. Poor grades of wool are disappointing in that they soon wear shabby, shrink badly when wet because of lack of proper shrinkage in making, and lack fastness of color.

Grades Vary Greatly.

There are many grades of woolen and worsted cloth, varying in weight, fineness of weave, finish, purity, color, weave design, etc. The standard broadcloths, worsted suitings, expensive velvets, etc., materials which bring good price, are usually all wool and wear well. Here again the "novelty" the new material for the season, not always the lower priced cloth, though frequently so, is the one to be examined. Unfortunately, the poor grade cloth, though frequently so, is the one to be examined. Unfortunately, the poor grade cloth, usually sells at the price which catches the buyer who can least afford to be deceived, and to whom economic waste is most serious.

STREAMS GIVE PLEASURE TO MANY ILLINOIS RESIDENTS

Growing Importance Attached to Their Maintenance—Paul Hansen Points to Methods of Disinfection.

By Paul Hansen, Engineer State Water Survey.

Of recent years growing importance is attached to the maintenance of our streams for pleasure purposes. Every summer there may be found scattered along the streams within a radius of 50 miles or more of our large cities numerous camps. This form of summer vacation seems a comparatively cheap and normally healthful form of recreation. It ought to be regarded as one of the means of improving the health tone of our urban communities inasmuch as it is within the means of so great a number of people. It is a striking fact that these campers invariably seek the stream valleys, which illustrate the cravings of man for a combination of land and water in which nature presents her most picturesque, alluring aspects. Streams are used for bathing, boating, fishing, washing, cooking and in some few cases for drinking purposes. There is no reason why the streams should not be used freely for cooking and drinking. For reasons already explained no water course can be maintained in its original and pristine purity and for this reason, the public should be educated by health officials and in any other way that comes handy to understand that water from surface streams is not fit for domestic consumption. It might be suggested, however, that in many instances streams may be kept so clean, without unreasonable demands being made upon riparian owners using them as drainage courses, that it should be altogether unnecessary to use the water for drinking after boiling. Where streams are used for recreation purposes valuable adjunct to sewage treatment is the now well known and understood method of disinfection.

Fish and Shell Fish.

Many streams are valuable to the community on account of their fish life. It may be said in general that there is rarely necessity for so polluting a stream as to endanger fish life, though there are some circumstances where the contamination of certain liquid waste producing industries is of so great importance to the general welfare that fish life in certain streams must be sacrificed. The maintenance of fish life does not necessarily imply an unpolluted stream. It is merely necessary that the alkalinity of the water be maintained and that the pollution be not so great as to absorb the dissolved oxygen in the water to an extent that will suffocate the fish. The fact is: a moderate degree of pollution favors fish life in that it favors the growth of microscopic aquatic life, which is a valuable fish food. Certain difficulties have been encountered by the contamination of fish by polluted water, which causes the fish to decay rapidly and become unfit for human consumption. The danger of infection of human beings with specific disease through eating fish taken from polluted streams is almost negligible, for the reason that in this part of the world, at any rate, fish are not eaten raw. With shell fish, however, the case is quite different, because they are frequently eaten raw. It has been a common practice along the coast to float oysters in shallow polluted waters, which causes them to become bloated and appear fat. Such an oyster perhaps makes a more delectable morsel of food, but it may be lurking the germs of typhoid fever or some other disease that may be water-borne. The problem of protecting the shell fish industry is a very complicated one and all its intricacies have not been worked out. Here again is where the services of experts are needed to study each zone of shell fish pollution in the light of local conditions which are always diverse. As a concrete example of efforts that are made to protect shell fish may be mentioned the case of the city of Baltimore, which at the expense of millions of dollars is purifying its sewage so as to convert it into a liquid which is not only clear and inoffensive but also practically sterile.

GROWING APPLES IN NEW ENGLAND

ORCHARDS CONDITIONS ARE RAPIDLY CHANGING THERE.

Climate Has Many Points of Superiority Over Far West—Great Market Is Within Easy Distance of Grower.

Apple orcharding in New England is a much discussed industry at the present time. In this, one of the oldest settled parts of the United States, the industry has gone through a process of evolution involving many interesting periods in its history. It seems that today is a transition time in the history of the apple industry in New England. Intensive methods of cultivation are replacing the old haphazard methods and the total neglect, which, in most instances, characterized the industry a few years ago. The box package of the west has already been successfully adopted, and the most up to date methods of sorting and packing are now in vogue.

Near Great Market.

The apple grower of New England has many favoring factors which point toward the successful operation of his business. Climatic conditions are excellent. Frosts seldom occur during blossoming, and in those localities where slight danger of frost this trouble does exist, sites that are comparatively frost free are to be obtained by choosing locations on the hillsides, which exist in every part of the New England states. The yearly rainfall is sufficient to make irrigation unnecessary. Prices of land suitable for orchard growing are much lower than the prices for similar land in many other apple growing regions in the United States. The New England grower has a wide range of soils, slopes and location from which to choose.

Above other advantages, however, the New England orchardist has the advantage of nearby markets. One may grow, harvest and market a car of apples in New England for less than the cost of the freight on a similar car shipped from the state of Oregon to the city of Boston. New England growers may, when necessary, express instead of freight, to hurry their goods into market. The cost of express to the growers on the Pacific coast entirely precludes his availing himself of this method of transportation. Within one hundred miles of the southwest corner of the state of New Hampshire there lives a city population of twenty-three million people; an enormous consuming body, capable of taking at reasonable prices, a vastly larger output than the New England states are now supplying and offering market possibilities which cannot be rivalled elsewhere. The New England apple grower has further, the advantage of export ports from which shipments can be made without delay on the British and European markets. An excellent outlet is thus provided for surplus production, insuring a comparatively stable market from one year to another.

New England Fruit Trees Live Long.

To the westward there are some very interesting and characteristic features of eastern orcharding. In New England, apple trees live to an unusual age. When at all well cared for they are in their prime at fifty and sixty years old. They bear quite as freely at one hundred years of age as younger trees, proving they have been kept free from accident and disease; but under such conditions they are too large and wild to be profitable under modern orchard conditions. Most of the old orchards consist of rows of trees along the stone walls which surround the fields. Some have been developed from seedling trees which grew up in the pastures, and were grafted over to the owner as time and inclination prompted. Thus they are irregular in character of planting, and do not lend themselves readily to modern cultivation. Even the old cider orchard of wild or native fruit may still be found in many parts of New Hampshire and Vermont. While hunting on a mountain side in northern New Hampshire, the writer found the remains of an apple orchard which must have been planted ninety or one hundred years ago. It was now entirely overgrown by pine trees, which could not have been less than thirty-five or forty years of age.

The Geologist's Clock.
Each fossiliferous rock bed contains characteristic forms or groups of forms that determine the period in which it was laid or sand. Former Director Powell of the United States geological survey once tersely explained to a congressional committee the value of paleontology by saying that it is "the geologist's clock," by which he tells the time when rock beds were formed. The economic importance of paleontology has been repeatedly shown in this country. In the earliest exploitation of anthracite coal thousands of dollars were fruitlessly expended in New York in search of coal beds until the New York geologists showed that the beds in that state could contain no coal. The fossils in the rocks exploited are devonian, whereas the fossils of the Pennsylvania anthracite coal beds belong to the carboniferous, a much later period. This discovery at once stopped a useless expenditure of money. Argonaut.

A Fatal Sleep.
Hugh Miller, the Scottish geologist and writer, was one of the most illustrous of sleepwalkers. Miller, who had been addicted to somnambulism in his youth, found his restless return
while he was engaged upon his "Testimony of the Rocks." He used to sleep in the morning feeling, as he said, as if he had been abroad in the night wind, dragged by some invisible power and ridden by witches. On the night of his death he slept alone. In the morning they found him stretched dead on the floor with a bullet through his brain. He had written a note to his wife: "My brain burns. I must have walked, and a fearful dream rises upon me. I cannot bear the horrible thought.
My brain burns as the recollection grows." So intense had been the poor fellow's anguish that to make certain his end he had torn back shirt and vest and placed the muzzle of the pistol to his naked flesh.—St. James' Gazette.

CALMER TRADING MARKS
STOCK MANIPULATIONS

FINAL CHANGES IN MOST IS-SUES WERE SMALL.

In Spite of the Slackening Demand
Sentiment Was More Cheerful
Than Has Been the Case for Some Time.

(By Associated Press)
New York, June 13.—The recent violent breaks in stocks and the equally swift recovery yesterday were followed today by slower and calmer trading with some further progress upward. Final changes in most cases, however, were small.
The most urgent demands for short covering seemed to have been met yesterday and while there was a further retreat today by the bears,
they were able to buy in their stocks at better advantage. Buying, which was a feature of yesterday's market, fell off considerably today. A few stocks, including Reading, Union Pacific, Amalgamated Copper and Canadian Pacific showed substantial gains at times, but the movement in general was narrow. New Haven, which was affected unfavorably by yesterday's wreck, was exceptionally weak, touching a new low figure at 99 1/2.

In spite of the slackening demand, sentiment was more cheerful than had been the case for a long time. Time money rates were quot-ably easier and several of the leading banks were in the market as orders of 60 day and 90 day funds, although over the year money was still in scant supply. A spirit of caution still prevailed, however, and speculative interests wished to ascertain, before making extensive commitments, whether a definite turn in monetary conditions could come.
Forecasts of the bank statement indicated that another addition of cash would be shown. A known movement of currency for the week indicated a cash gain of $8,000,000 or $9,000,000.

BLUE AND DISCOURAGED

Mrs. Hamilton Tells How She Finally Found Health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Warren, Ind.—"I was bothered terribly with female weakness. I had pains and was not regular, my head ached all the time, I had bearing down pains and my back hurt me the biggest part of the time. I was dizzy and had weak feelings when I would stoop over, it hurt me to walk any distance and I felt blue and discouraged.

"I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and am now in good health. If it had not been for that medicine I would have been in my grave a long time ago."—Mrs. ARTIE E. HAMILTON, R. F. D. No. 6, Warren, Ind.

Another Case.
Esmond, R. I.—"I write to tell you how much good your medicine has done me and to let other women know that there is help for them. I suffered with bearing down pains, headache, was irregular and felt blue and depressed all the time. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and commenced to gain in a short time and I am a well woman today. I am on my feet from early morning until late at night running a boarding house and do all my own work. I hope that many suffering women will try your medicine. It makes happier wives and mothers."—Mrs. ANNA HANSEN, Esmond, Rhode Island.

Stork and Cupid Cunning Plotters

Many a New Home will Have a Little Sunbeam to Brighten it.

There is usually a certain degree of dread in every woman's mind as to the probable pain, distress and danger of childbirth. But, thanks to a most remarkable remedy known as Mother's Friend, all fear is banished and the period is one of unbounded, joyful anticipation.

Mother's Friend is used externally. It is a most penetrating application, makes the muscles of the stomach and abdomen pliant so they expand easily and naturally without pain, without distress and with none of that peculiar nausea, nervousness and other symptoms that tend to weaken the prospective mother. Thus Cupid and the stork are led up to veneration; they are rated as cunning plotters to herald the coming of a little sunbeam to gladden the hearts and brighten the homes of a host of happy families.

There are thousands of women who have used Mother's Friend, and thus know from experience that it is one of our greatest contributions to healthy, happy motherhood. It is sold by all druggists at $1.00 per bottle, and is especially recommended as a preventive of caking breasts and all other such distresses.

Write to Bradford Regulator Co., 151 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., for their very valuable book to expectant mothers. Get a bottle of Mother's Friend to-day.

There is a wealth of instruction and comfort to be derived in reading this little book. It is plainly written, just what every woman wants to know, and will be a splendid little textbook for guidance, not only for yourself, but will make you helpful to others. And, in the meantime, do not fail to get a bottle of Mother's Friend at the drug store, and thus fortify yourself against any and all pain and discomfort.

KINDNESS WINS FORTUNE.

Wellston, Ohio, June 13.—Dr. E. S. Higley in the early '80s loaned Charles Froelich, a struggling farmer, $700 with which to complete his education. Froelich entered a college and studied diligently, finally graduating as a mining engineer. Soon afterward he sailed for Australia and was not heard from for several years. Dr. Higley who had given up active practice was surprised one day eight years ago when Froelich, grown beyond the physicians' recognition, walked into his office and after a chat repaid the debt of $700 with compound interest.

After a stay of several weeks in this city Froelich returned to his Antipodean home. Nothing has been heard from him since that time until yesterday when Henry K. Thorncroft a barrister of Melbourne, Australia arrived in the city and notified Dr. Higley that Froelich had died without relatives and had left his entire estate, valued at $1,000,000 to his former friend. Dr. Higley is 70 years old.

DEVICE FOR WIDENING BERTHS.

The Pullman company has just become possessed of the patent right of a new device for the purpose of making berths wider. Sleeping car berths are not as wide as could be desired because of the limitations placed on the width of the cars and the necessity of providing sufficient aisle space. In compartment cars, however, where there is a separate passageway through the car outside the compartments, there is no objection to using the aisle for extending the berths and some of the compartment sleeping cars running in the Twentieth Century limited are equipped with a device for this purpose. The seat ends are hinged so that they can be swung down and supported by an angle brace and form a horizontal extension of the seat. When the two seats are pulled out, as is ordinarily done in making up a lower berth, a filler is placed between the two ends after they have been lowered, thus forming a full-sized bed.

WOODSON SOCIAL CLUB MET.

The B. G. Good Time Club of Woodson gave a social at the home of Ruth and Ione Gallagher Thursday evening. The evening was spent playing croquet and other games. Those present were Misses: Charles Megginson, Ruth Gallagher, Marguerite Steinmetz, Marie Megginson, Ione Gallagher and Emma Harry, Messrs. Chester Colton, Ray Henry, Alfred Cox, Ray Baxter, Vivian Craigmile and Earl Adams. Light refreshments were served and later the guests departed having reported a pleasant evening.

SAVED BY DREAMS

Curious Cases of Warnings That Came In Slumber.

TOLD OF DEATH OR DISASTER.

Lucky Escapes Due to Heeding the Mysterious Messages of the Prophetic Visions—A Vivid Dream That Resulted in Preventing a Murder.

In spite of the number of authenticated cases of dreams that have come true, the percentage of prophetic dreams that are actually fulfilled must be very small. However, it must be confessed that a considerable number of people have escaped death or disaster by paying heed to a dream warning.

Wrecks have figured in more than one prophetic dream, both the loss of the Republic and the Berlin being foretold in dreams. A man was once about to sail for Norway with a friend, but on the night before he should have started he dreamed that he stood upon a mountain surrounded by water and that the water gradually began to submerge the peak. Just as he was in danger of being drowned he woke, and so vividly was the dream impressed upon his mind that he decided not to sail. A few days later the ship by which he should have traveled went down with all hands.

Then there is the case of a lady who was about to leave India for England, but was deterred by a dream. Several days before the date set for her departure she had a vision in which she saw the vessel by which she was to sail on fire in midocean. The sequel was that a fire actually did break out under the conditions indicated, but after hard work by the crew it was extinguished without loss of life.

Yet a third instance was mentioned in one of the shipping papers a few years ago. An apprentice up for his second mate's ticket failed for his sent to sea for another voyage in a sailing ship. He was appointed boatswain of a fine sailing ship trading with Australia and New Zealand. The night before he signed on he had a vivid dream in which he saw his ship sailing along in fine weather under a full spread of canvas. Soon a thick bank of sea fog closed round the clipper, although the dreamer could still see everything on board as clearly as before. All at once something glimmered through the mist, and before anything could be done a huge iceberg crashed into the ship, the noise of the collision and the falling spars waking him. So vivid was the dream that the vessel left without her proper boatswain, and since then she has figured among the missing. The curious thing about it, said the narrator, was that never before or since can he remember having dreamed of sea life.

It is also on record that a shipwrecked crew were once brought back to civilization through the instrumentality of a dream. An East Indianman ran ashore on Inaccessible island, in the Atlantic, and for three months the passengers and crew subsisted as best they could. During that time a rough boat was built, and in this they were transported to Tristan D'Acutuba. Several weeks later a ship appeared off the island because her owner had dreamed a shipwrecked crew had landed there. As clothes were scarce, rough and ready garments were made out of some green and red balze which happened to be on board. Curiously enough, before the return of the vessel the owner's wife had a dream in which she saw it sailing into port with people dressed in green and red on board.

Now and again a miner relates a dream that saved him from sudden death, although strangers do not often hear these stories. There was once a bad accident at a Derbyshire pit, several men being killed by a fall of the cage. One of the men who should have been in that cage was absent, for he had a dream that it was dashed to pieces, falling from the very top with all the men inside it. On hearing the dream his wife persuaded him to stay at home that day.

When Melton Prior, the famous war artist, died most of the papers told the story of the dream warning he had when in Zululand. At first he determined to disregard it, but it made such an impression on him that he at last determined to keep away from the column he intended to join. He engaged another man to go, and he was among the first killed.

From time to time crimes, even murder, have been prevented by a dream. A lady saw in a dream an old relative being murdered, so she posted off to her house and was surprised to find the door opened by the very man she had seen commit the deed! She obtained permission to sleep with the old lady and before retiring asked the two sons of the mother to sit up all night in the adjoining room.

As soon as the old lady had gone to sleep she got out of bed and looked the door and then lay awake, listening. After what seemed hours a ray of light appeared under the door and the knob was carefully turned. Leaping out of bed, she called the sons, threw open the door and found the man-servant outside with a coil scuttle in his hand. On being asked by the lady and the men what he wanted he replied that he had answered the bell. But no bell had been rung, and in the coil scuttle was a knife. Then he saw the game was up and confessed. The day before his mistress had received her rents, which were kept in her room until they were paid into the bank the next day, and he had suddenly determined to murder her for the money. KITCHEN RUSH GIVEN AT EBENEZER METHODIST CHURCH

Many Useful Household Utensils Added to Kitchen Department—Re-dedication Services Will Be Held Tomorrow.

The "kitchen rush" at the Ebenezer church Thursday evening proved a great success and as a result the culinary department of the church will have a large number of useful utensils. There was a large number present and the first part of the evening was given over to a program as follows:

Two instrumental solos—Mrs. F. J. Blackburn.
Recitation—Gerald Campbell.
Reading—Rev. E. B. Houck.
Address—Rev. W. S. Phillips.
Vocal solo—C. A. Rowe.
Recitation—Helen Dinwiddie.
Piano solo—Mrs. Edgar Martin.
After the program all repaired to the basement of the church where light refreshments were served and a social hour enjoyed.

Re-dedication services will be held Sunday. The Sunday school will be held at the usual hour, 9:30. At 10:45 Rev. W. S. Phillips of Cerro Gordo, a former pastor, will preach. Dinner will be served to everyone at 12 o'clock and at 2 o'clock a sermon will be given by Rev. F. A. McCarty, district superintendent. Rev. C. F. Baker of Charleston will preach at 7:30 o'clock. There will be special music and a cordial invitation is extended to all to attend the services.

INJURED BY FALL.
Mrs. Mary Vagts, who resides at 404 East North street, was quite severely injured Friday. She was working in her house where a floor was being laid and accidentally she fell in such a manner that her face hit the flooring. The entire front part of her face was bruised, a nail just missing the eye and striking the forehead. She was unconscious for several minutes. While her injuries are quite painful, it is thought nothing serious will result.

MISS WILDAY, A TEACHER IN INDIANAPOLIS SCHOOL.
Miss Alma Wilday, a former pupil of voice at the Woman's college, sang recently at the thirty-third annual commencement exercises of the Indiana Dental college at Indianapolis. She gave "A Song of Thanksgiving," by Alltisen and as an encore, "April Blossoms" by Clough Leichter. Miss Wilday is now a member of the faculty of the Indianapolis Conservatory of Music and is also member of the solo quartet of one of the downtown churches. Her many friends in this community will be glad to learn of her success.

TWO BUSINESS SQUARES BURNED.
Bridgeport, Ill., June 13.—Fire that destroyed two business squares here this afternoon did damage estimated at a quarter of a million dollars before brought under control. The fire started when a pan of gasoline exploded in a blacksmith shop. It soon reached the main business district and the bucket brigades were unable to stop the spread of the flames. Wagon tanks loaded with water and chemicals were sent here from Lawrenceville and extinguished the fire.

PLAT BOOK OF MORGAN COUNTY HAS JUST BEEN ISSUED

Valuable Data Collected in Production, Published By Caldwell and Nelson Engineering Company.

Residents of Morgan county and elsewhere will be interested in the plat book of Morgan county which is just off the press. It is published by Caldwell and Nelson Engineering company, successor to Charles W. Brown, and is by far the most complete book of its kind ever issued here. No little pains has been taken in bringing the book down to date and all changes throughout the county are accurate up to April 15, 1913.

The book contains a township map of Morgan county; school district map of the county; road district map of the county; map of every township; enlarged plat of sections 9 and 10; annex to Park Hill addition; Mound Heights addition; Jones sub-division of James Dunlap's west addition; enlarged plat of Jordan's addition; also a complete plat of the twenty towns of the county.

The volume is well bound and printed on splendid paper. The work, typographically, is most commendable and the various maps show precisely the location of all lands, together with the ownership, railroads, creeks, division lines, corporation lines, school houses, churches. The townships are printed in different colors which aids materially in locating any particular piece of property. The school district maps are numbered in such a manner that data is easily obtainable. A map of Jacksonville is given a two page space.

Much of the data for the publication was prepared by the late C. W. Brown and was completed by Messrs. Caldwell and Nelson who have spared no time or efforts in making the book accurate and its content will be highly valuable to those interested in the location and ownership of Morgan county property.

AT THE GRAND.

Today's matinee and the two performances tonight are the last opportunity there will be to hear the Romany Opera Co., at the Grand theater. The prices at all performances will be 10c throughout the house. Certainly never before have such singers been heard at such a price and there should be bumper houses today. Let anyone who is interested in singing or who wishes to hear the real Italian "bel canto" at its best take this unique chance. Let them come and hear the immortal Rossini music in the Figaro song from the Barber of Seville. Let them hear the charming Adelina Dossena in Lolita, in addition to the other gems. And let those who love the lighter strains come and enjoy the merry strains of Caroleppota and Ciri-Biri-Bi. They will hear them rendered just as they are in Italy and with such a joyous vim as to make them a delight even to the unmusical. The engagement of these talented vocalists will never be forgotten by those who have heard them. So do not let yourself be one of those who missed the opportunity it may never present itself again.

Pack your clothes in one of Knoles suit cases for that summer trip.

MORTUARY

Williams.

Mrs. Emily E. Williams, died Friday afternoon at 1 o'clock at Passavant hospital, where she had been a patient for the past three weeks, aged 62 years.

Her maiden name was Emily Love and she was born in Natchez, Mississippi, December 1, 1850. She was married in 1871 to Virgil H. Williams, who died June 23, 1904. The family has been residents of Jacksonville since November 7, 1899.

She is survived by two children, Edmund A. Williams of Springfield and Mrs. Charles Keohner of North Main street, also one sister, Mrs. M. L. Manchester of Louisiana, Mo.

The remains were taken to the undertaking parlors of Williamson and Cody where they were prepared for burial. Funeral services will be conducted from the family residence, 635 North Main street, Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, in charge of Rev. G. W. Flagg. Interment will be made in Diamond Grove cemetery.

Whipple.

Isaac G. Whipple, who was injured in the automobile accident at Bluffs, died in St. John's hospital in Springfield Thursday night at 11:20. Mrs. Whipple, who was also in the car at the time of the accident, is getting along favorably, although she is suffering from the lacerations and muscles of the chest being torn and back badly wrenched. Mr. and Mrs. Whipple celebrated their golden wedding anniversary January 26, 1912.

FLAG LECTURE TO NIGHT.

Do not fail to hear Dr. Johnson lecture on the American flag at Grace church tonight. The admission charges will be but 10 cents for children and 25 cents for adults and a splendid lecture is certain. The proceeds are for the Morgan County Anti-Tuberculosis society.

HAVE HAD GOOD RAINS.

Crop conditions south of Franklin are said to be in better condition than in some other parts of the county. Corn looks well there and the same applies to the wheat. Oats have not done extra well, but pastures are not suffering as there has been more rainfall in that locality than in some others.

SOCIAL EVENTS.

Mrs. Harry M. Capps entertained for a number of friends at her home on Mound avenue Friday afternoon, the hours being from 2 until 5. She was assisted by her sisters, Mrs. Henry Armentrout, of Perry and Mrs. H. E. Read, of St. Louis. During the afternoon light refreshments were served.

A number of young ladies of Franklin gave a dance in Olinger's hall Friday night, which was a most enjoyable affair.

Westminster Guild held the final meeting of the season Friday afternoon with Mr. J. W. Walton. The leader of the afternoon was Mrs. R. R. Stevenson, the subject being "The Prayer Life of Paul." The formal exercises were followed by a picnic supper on the lawn. The various members had joined in providing a liberal supply of good things to eat.

The Junior class of the Academic department of Rountt college, entertained the seniors at the home of Miss Sweeney, 922 South East street, Friday evening. The house was very prettily decorated for the occasion, the college colors, purple and white, the seniors' colors, red and white, and the junior colors, red and black, being artistically arranged. The students spent the evening in a happy manner by the use of various games and prizes were won by Miss Thomasena Clerihan and Prof. Quigley. During the evening suitable refreshments were served. Leo Donovan is president of the Junior class and Miss Florence Lonergan of the senior class.

SOLD HOGS AT NINE CENTS.

Two loads of heavy hogs shipped to the Buffalo market by F. E. Drury brought nine cents per pound yesterday, the highest price paid for some time. Mr. Drury's cattle brought nine cents Wednesday, so that both his hogs and cattle have sold at the same price. Today Mr. Drury will load four cars of hogs for shipment to the eastern market. He still has on hand a number of loads of both hogs and cattle and will load them out from time to time if market conditions continue favorable.

When asked last night if the pastures at his farm were getting short Mr. Drury replied, "I don't worry about pastures in feeding my hogs and cattle for the market. Since I have erected the silo I do not run them in pastures, but do all my feeding in dry lots."

Knoles straw hats will please you.

EBENEZER RE-DEDICATION.

OLDEST ELK OF STATE TO OBSERVE BIRTHDAY

Col. W. T. Baker of Bolivia Will Be Eighty-Five On June 29—Was Personal Friend of Lincoln.

The oldest Elk in the state of Illinois is Colonel W. T. Baker of Bolivia, who will celebrate his eighty-fifth birthday Sunday, June 29. The colonel was a personal friend of Abraham Lincoln and recently at the opening of the state convention of Elks held in Rock Island he presented to the Rock Island lodge and to Mayor H. M. Schriver, each a bit of a walnut tree.

Colonel Baker relates the story that away back in 1858, the Illinois rail splitter, his cousin, John Hanks and himself loaded the Lincoln flatboat with corn and bacon and embarked on the Mississippi. When a point was reached opposite the Baker homestead the craft was stranded four days and four nights and Lincoln himself was the one who tied the boat to a walnut tree. The gavel presented to the Rock Island lodge was made from the wood of this tree.

Colonel Baker expects to celebrate his birthday and a number of Elks will go there in honor of the occasion. The colonel has already made the statement that "There will be no invitations; everybody is welcome."
